In November 1911, Government again drew the attention of the Inspector General of Police to the necessity of issuing a Police Manual in accordance with the Government Order of October 1904 re: Departmental Manuals. The Inspector General submitted Volume I of the draft manual in December 1915 and Volume II containing the appendices and forms in February 1916. Practically no action was taken till May 1917 when the file was transferred to the Efficiency Audit Branch. The whole draft has been scrutinised and sent to Press in parts. Proofs of chapters I to XV received from the Press together with a note explaining the material changes introduced and the provisions requiring particular attention are put up for favour of approval.

As personally instructed by the Under Secretary, Efficiency Audit Branch, the principles kept in view, in revising the Inspector General's draft are:-

(i) to set down statutory provisions at the beginning of each chapter and separating them from the body of the manual.

(ii) to make the provisions simple, brief and practicable,

(iii) to avoid repitition of the same or similar provisions taken from the different British manuals,

(iv) to eliminate elaborate provisions not now in vogue and apparently not quite necessary,

WD 1233—GPB—60,000—1-12-16—S.

Serial No.

(vi) to make as slight a departure as possible from the existing orders of Government, consistent with the efficiency of the department.

The Manual, as revised, mostly corresponds with the Madras Manual and does not, at the same time, differ materially from the existing practice. A marginal head-note is also prepared against each rule to facilitate reference.

Chapters I to XV deal with the Personnel of the Department and form Part I of the first volume. The remaining parts will be noted and submitted as they are received from the Press.

Bangalore, 19th April 1913.

Dear Sreenivasiyar

The draft of the Mysore Police Manual on which I have been engaged for some time is now ready for print, and I have got a typed copy for being passed through press after the model of the Mysore Municipal Account Manual, on half margin, the left half being reserved for inserting the authorities etc from which the various orders and rulings have been adopted. On receipt of the requisite number of advance copies, they will be distributed among the Deputy Commissioners and their suggestions and modifications, if any, will be invited and the same discussed and settled during His Highness the Maharaja's Birthday festivities, in Mysore in June next, if possible. After such conference, a revised printed draft of the Manual in final form will be submitted to Government for approval, after which it may be issued as early as practicable.

I have had an interview with Mr. Yates and explained the course of operation, and request that you may be so good as to instruct him to kindly send me the proofs as soon as possible, as I would like to forward the advance copies to the Deputy Commissioners well in advance of time.

Yours sincerely

Dear Sir,

On going through the Draft Police Manual received with your office letter no. 1067-121 dated the 8th September 1914 it is found that in many places British Indian rules are cited as authorities. I am desired to enquire if whether these rules have been adopted in Mysore under Govt. orders or other due authority & if not, how they can be issued as under the authority of Govt.

Dear Srinivasa

Your D.O. reference regarding the Draft Mysore Police Manual.

The marginal notes citing British Indian rules against some of the Sections in the Draft are not meant to convey that those Sections are taken entirely from the British Indian Manuals, but were intended merely to indicate either particular form of arrangement of the subject or phraseology adopted elsewhere and to draw the attention of the several Superintendents to them and analogous provisions which they were expected to make a comparative study of and come prepared for discussion at the last Conference. The Draft embodies mostly our own rules &c which have been approved by Government or are already in practice and issued by the Inspector General from time to time, as also some, though same as our own in substance have been better put elsewhere. So for the purpose above stated, certain marginal notes were given- e.g., the very first section about the Ordinary and Village Police, and reference to Burmah Police Manual, just to show how the subject matter was arranged there, not that the constitution of the Force was do of Burmah!

There are also some provisions which are new or taken from other sources, all of which have been thrashed out in the last Conference. The revised Draft is under preparation wherein will be distinctly shown which of the portions are merely compilations of our Orders and Circulars based on authority and which are new or taken from elsewhere requiring sanction of Government, which of course will be obtained before the final issue of the Manual, as was done in the case of the Municipal Account Manual.

The Draft now before the Government being merely a first proof sent to them on their asking for information how the matter stood, no notice of it is needed.

Yours
Sd/- K. Narasimiah

No. 3381/415

OFFICE OF THE INSPECTOR GENERAL OF POLICE IN MYSORE.

Encl. (Vol I Draft Police Manual in two Books).

Dated Bangalore, 24th December 1915

From

Diwan Bahadur C. SRIKANTESVARA AIYAR, B.A., B.L.,

Inspector General of Police in Mysore.

DIARY No. 1841

To

The Secretary to the Government of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore, General Department.

Sir,

I have the honour to forward herewith the draft Police Manual, Volume I, and to state that the compilation of the same has proved more arduous and taken more time than was anticipated. The first draft of the Manual had been previously circulated among the Deputy Commissioners of Districts, and with their views thereon was subsequently discussed at a conference of the several Superintendents held in November 1914, and has since been elaborately revised in accordance with the views of the conference.

2. For facility of reference, the paragraphs based on existing Orders of Government have the respective Proceedings of Government noted in the margin. The remaining portions merely represent the existing practice based on the circulars etc issued from the Inspector General's office from time to time. The Manual contains no important departure from existing practice, as any new matter would entail discussion and time, and delay the issue of the Manual, which is undesirable. Separate proposals on such matters will be submitted later on.

3. The rules for the award of black marks (para 259) have been framed with a view to minimize the fines imposed on subordinate officers which is deprecated everywhere, and the system of good conduct stripes (para 248) will, it is hoped, prove a further incentive to good work. The system has been in force in a few of the Districts, but is not being consistently or uniformly worked.

4. Para 543 is based on the letter of the Inspector General of Prisons, wherein he has agreed to issue orders for the supply of information regarding the release of convicts within the 15th of the month previous to their release. This will enable the police to exercise better surveillance over the released convicts, especially the hardened criminals.

5. The chapter on Extradition has been written on the basis of the existing Orders of Government, which will be printed in extenso as an appendix for reference.

6. Para 728 represents the practice regarding the use of fire arms to suppress unlawful assemblies etc, and as the matter is important and urgent and has not received Government sanction, I now bring the same prominently to notice, for approval and inclusion in this Manual.

7. The chapters on leave, pension and travelling allowances are mere extracts from the Mysore Service Regulations, with supplementary instructions issued from the Inspector General's office, from time to time.

8. The various forms referred to in the body of the Manual will be printed as Volume II.

9. A third volume has yet to be got up, containing the numerous Local and Special Regulations with the rules and directions issued thereunder, which the Police have to work.

10. These together with the Chief Office Manual (Volume IV) already submitted to Government, will complete the Standing Orders of this Department.

11. As most of the subordinate officers of this Department, for whose benefit the Manual is intended, do not understand English, it is absolutely necessary to have the Volumes I, II and III translated into Kannada also, which will entail further heavy labour, which has to be attended to hereafter.

12. The Police Manuals in British India are issued under the authorities of the Local Governments, and the Indian Police Commission have recommended that a Manual should be issued for the whole of British India under the authority of the Government of India. I would therefore suggest that the Mysore Police Manual be similarly issued under the authority of the Government.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

C. Srikantaiya

Inspector General of Police.

In continuation of this Office No. 3381-415 of 27-12-15, I have the honor to forward herewith Volume II of the Police -- Manual, in two Parts A. & B., relating to the Police Forms and Registers now in use in the Police Department.

2. In Proceedings No. J.1160-61., Police 173-05-11 of 2-11-06, while abolishing the K.D., and the Previous Conviction Registers Nos.62 A & 31 A., the Government sanctioned the introduction of the Village Crime Note Book, the Bad Character Rolls and the --- Surveillance Register which have to be included in the Part II B., Registers. Type-written Forms are put up in the said part in accordance with the Forms sanctioned in the Proceedings cited -- above as the same have not yet been printed and supplied. The Village Crime Note Book has to issue in one Volume containing all the five parts. As one Register has to be maintained for each Village, each Part has to contain at least 30 pages.

3. The sizes in which the various Forms and Registers are, at present issued are not uniform and the paper in some cases, is brittle. Police Forms and Registers are more or less of permanent importance and as such I propose to have them issued in non-brittle papers, of only two sizes, for facility of record and reference, as

In returning herewith the proofs of the Police Manual received with your letters shown in the margin, I have the honor to state that on a comparison of the proofs with the draft Manual submitted from this Office, it is found that chapters have been re-arranged on a better plan and that redundancies have been avoided, the number of sections having thereby somewhat reduced.

Accompaniment to Government Order No. 184 950-E.A.9/2 dated 31st January 1918.

CHAPTER III.

Recruitment of Non-Gazetted Officers.

Rules 18 and 20 - A minimum of educational qualifications is prescribed for Jamadar and Inspector. Candidates for these appointments are required to have passed the matriculation or the S.S.L.C.examination. Before being confirmed, the Inspector has also to pass the Mysore Local Service, Criminal (Lower) examination. The existing orders relating to recruitment do not insist on any such qualification though in practice preference is given to the claims of educated men.

CHAPTER IV.

Powers and duties of superior officers.

Rule 27 - This rule lays down that the Deputy Commissioner or Superintendent shall not, without the special sanction of the Inspector-General, issue any rule subsidiary to the provisions contained in the manual. This is intended to put a stop to the spasmodic orders sometimes issued by the District officers which have led to a diversity of practice.

Rule 37 - In order that the Superintendent may have a thorough insight into the work of his subordinates and to guide him the in the fair distribution of patronage among them, he is required to maintain the following new registers:-

(1) Confidential register of Inspectors, Sub-inspectors, Jamadars and Head-constables.

(2) List of detectives.

(3) Seniority list of Jamadars and Head-constables.

(4) Seniority list of Daffedars and Sergeants.

(5) A list of constables fit for promotion.

Rule 53 - The Check Register of Crime is a new register to be maintained by the Superintendent in order that he may exercise control over the investigation by the subordinate officers and to check any delay or irregularity on their part. This serves also as an index to the Crime Register and prominently brings to notice cases which have been allowed to lie over.

Rule 74 - The Inspector is required to maintain certain registers, chief among which are the register of Government property and the Histroy of the Taluk. The latter serves as a Taluk Manual from a Police standpoint, and is in accordance with the Inspector General's Circular No.44 of 1906. The former is a new register calculated to prevent loss of Government property and to fix the responsibility for their care and custody on the Inspector.

Chapter X.

REWARDS.

Rule 123- The powers of the several controlling officers in sanctioning rewards are laid down in this rule. The Inspector-General is given slightly higher powers, viz., to sanction up to Rs 100 in each case instead of Rs 50 as at present, and the Deputy Commissioners and the Superintendents to sanction rewards up to Rs 25 and 10 respectively, in each case.

CHAPTER XI

PUNISHMENTS.

Rule 137 - The system of punishment by black marks is provided for by this rule. This is recommended recommended by the Indian Police Commission with a view to minimise fines and forfeitures, which in the case of ill paid subordinates act as a great hardship.

Rule 144 - The procedure to be observed before dismissing an officer is detailed in this rule. It anunciates the principle laid down in the Chief Commissioner's Notification of 1879, Viz., that a charge should be framed, cross-examination allowed, explanation obtained and defence heard. It mostly corresponds with the Enquiry Rules recently ussued by Government. (G.O.No.392-444-E.A.G.157 dated 31-8-1917).

Chapter XIII.-Appeals.

Rule 152 - This rule lays down the procedure regarding the submission of appeals against departmental punishment. A copy of the minute and a copy of the defaulter sheet have always to accompany appeals.

Rule 153 - A time limit of two months from date of receipt of order by the appellant is prescribed by this rule for appeals against dismissal, reduction or suspension and one month in the case of other punishments. This is intended to prevent unnecessary work being thrown on superior officers and Government by appeals being preferred, as at present, in and out of season, on insufficient and flimsy grounds. Bona-fide appellants will not be prejudiced by this provision.

Chapter XIV.

Transfer and Relief.

Rule 158 - This rule prohibits the constant transfer of subordinate police officers, and fixes a time limit of five years in a station for constables constables and two years for locals. There is at present no definite order on the subject.

Rule 160 - An Inspector handing over charge is required to give to the relieving officer all monies, records and papers in his charge. His responsibility with regard to Government property in the several stations under his charge will continue for 30 days after relief.

Chapter XVIII- Investigation.

Rule 191 - Police officers are authorised to record statements of witnesses in a note-book instead of in loose sheets, as is being done hitherto. There is at present a diversity of practice in the matter of recording statements of witnesses and also in the matter of forwarding copies thereof with the special diary. As a witness is not bound under Section 161 Cr.P.C., (in an investigation under section 157 Cr. P.C.,) there appears to be no necessity to record statements at length, nor for a copy thereof being attached to the special diary, as a matter of course.

Rule 194 - Instructions in the matter of recording the dying declaration of a complainant are given in this rule, the important provision being that such declarations should be recorded in the presence of the accused, when he is available or is in custody and to allow him to cross-examine the deponent. It further requires the declaration to be forthwith forwarded to the court having jurisdiction to enquire into or try the case

Rule 203 - With a view to avoid unnecessary scriptory work now entailed on the station writing staff, copies of Special diaries, the First Information Report and other records of the station in which copies are required, are directed to be made by carbon process.

Rule 221 - Under this rule all arrested persons shall be searched and the property found on their persons entered in a new register called the Search Register.

Chapter XXIII-Searches.

Rule 240 - A Search List in triplicate is prescribed in which records of searches have to be made. One copy will be sent to the Magistrate, the second attached to the special diary and the trifoil will remain for the station record. By the introduction of this register in which the three copies are simultaneously made and bear signatures of the mahazardars, allegations of tampering sometimes made in regard to search records may possibly grow less.

Chapter XXV.

Station-House, Records, and Returns.

Rule 270 - Prescribes the list of records to be maintained in each station. Of these, the Gang Register and the Petty Case Register which are newly prescribed are of great advantage. A few of the old registers such as the A and B Gang Registers and the K.D.Register whose maintenance is needless have been done away with.

Chapter XXVII.

Village Crime Note-book, Conviction Register and Survillance Register.

The provisions of this and the succeeding chapters lay down an effective system of dealing with Village Crime Note-Book and survillance of criminals. Regitsration of and survillance over individual bad characters residing within a station limits. They are mostly a reiteration of the principles enunciated in G.O. No. J.1160-61-Police 173-06-11 dated 2nd November 1906. Government in consultation with the Inspector General of Police issued orders for the introduction of the Village Crime Note-book and Survillance Register, as had been done in British provinces following the recommendations of the Indian Police Commission. But this order somehow ~~remains a dead letter to this day.~~ does not seem to have been carried out with any degree of attention and thoroughness.

Chapter XXIX-Registered Gangs.

While chapter XXVII deals with individual criminals permanently residing in a place, the rules in this chapter relate to the movements of and survillance over, gangs or body of persons (semi-settled or nomadic) supposed to live by crime. The present A and B gang registers ~~which~~ will be done away with. The introduction of the ~~XxGxNx~~ Village Crime Note-book renders the A Gang Register now maintained for permanent gangs superfluous. The wandering gang register, also called the B Gang Regisrer, will be superseded by a new register which comprises in itself the conviction rolls and history sheets of its individual members. A strict observance of the rules ~~laid down herein serves as an excellent preventive measure against~~ shall prove of great advantage in the prevention of organised crime.

Chapter XXXIX

Criminal Investigation Department.

Rules 484-486 - The classes of crime which may be dealt with by the Criminal Investigation Department, either by entirely taking up the investigation of or by placing an officer at the disposal of the District Superintendent for that purpose, are given in these rules. There appears to be no definite instructions at present on this subject.

Chapter XL

~~The~~ Provincial Reserve ~~Police~~ Force.

The rules of this chapter are mostly in accordance with existing practice, the only new procedure requiring notice being that relating to the disposal of unlawful assemblies by means of firearms detailed in Rule 513. The instructions conveyed are the same as in force in Bengal.

2. The annexure indicates some of the changes introduced by the Manual and the provisions requiring particular attention.

3. The Inspector-General of Police is requested to have portions of the Manual translated and issued in Kanarese as suggested by him for the use of officers unacquainted with the English language.

4. The third volume dealing with the duties of the Police in connection with the local laws is awaited. Attention is also invited to Government Order No. 192—E. A. G., dated the 19th July 1917, in which a Manual for the use of Superintendents' offices has been ordered to be prepared.

Exd.—C. R.

No. 950—E. A. G. 184, DATED 31ST JANUARY 1918.

Accompaniment to Government Order No. 950—E. A. G. 184, dated 31st January 1918.

CHAPTER III.

RECRUITMENT OF NON-GAZETTED OFFICERS.

Rules 18 and 20—A minimum of educational qualifications is prescribed for Jamedar and Inspector. Candidates for these appointments are required to have passed the matriculation or the S. S. L. C. examination. Before being confirmed, the Inspector has also to pass the Mysore Local Service, Criminal (Lower) examination. The existing orders relating to recruitment do not insist on any such qualification though in practice preference is given to the claims of educated men.

CHAPTER IV.

POWERS AND DUTIES OF SUPERIOR OFFICERS.

Rule 27—This rule lays down that the Deputy Commissioner or Superintendent shall not, without the special sanction of the Inspector-General, issue any rule subsidiary to the provisions contained in the manual. This is intended to put a stop to the spasmodic orders sometimes issued by the District officers which have led to a diversity of practice.

Rule 37—In order that the Superintendent may have a thorough insight into the work of his subordinates and to guide him in the fair distribution of patronage among them, he is required to maintain the following new registers:—

(1) Confidential register of Inspectors, Sub-Inspectors, Jamedars and Head Constables.

(2) List of Detectives.

(3) Seniority list of Jamedars and Head Constables.

(4) Seniority list of Daffedars and Sergeants.

(5) A list of Constables fit for promotion.

Rule 53—The Check Register of Crime is a new register to be maintained by the Superintendent in order that he may exercise control over the investigation by the subordinate officers and to check any delay or irregularity on their part. This serves also as an index to the Crime Register and prominently brings to notice cases which have been allowed to lie over.

Rule 74—The Inspector is required to maintain certain registers, chief among which are the Register of Government Property and the History of the Taluk. The latter serves as a Taluk Manual from a Police stand-point and is in accordance with the Inspector-General's Circular No. 44 of 1906. The former is a new register calculated to prevent loss of Government property and to fix the responsibility for their care and custody on the Inspector.

CHAPTER X.

REWARDS.

Rule 123—The powers of the several controlling officers in sanctioning rewards are laid down in this rule. The Inspector-General is given slightly higher powers, viz., to sanction up to Rs. 100 in each case instead of Rs. 50 as at present, and the Deputy Commissioners and the Superintendents to sanction rewards up to Rs. 25 and 10, respectively, in each case.

CHAPTER XI.

PUNISHMENTS.

Rule 137—The system of punishment by black marks is provided for by this rule. This is recommended by the Indian Police Commission with a view to minimise fines and forfeitures, which in the case of ill paid subordinates act as a great hardship.

Rule 144—The procedure to be observed before dismissing an officer is detailed in this rule. It enunciates the principle laid down in the Chief Commissioner's Notification of 1879, viz., that a charge should be framed, cross-examination allowed, explanation obtained and defence heard. It mostly corresponds with the Enquiry Rules recently issued by Government (Government Order No. 392-444—E. A. G. 157, dated 31st August 1917).

CHAPTER XIII.

APPEALS.

Rule 152—This rule lays down the procedure regarding the submission of appeals against departmental punishment. A copy of the minute and a copy of the defaulter sheet have always to accompany appeals.

Rule 153—A time limit of two months from date of receipt of order by the appellant is prescribed by this rule for appeals against dismissal, reduction or suspension and one month in the case of other punishments. This is intended to prevent unnecessary work being th ior officers and Government, by appeals being preferred, as at present, in and ou i insufficient and flimsy grounds. Bona fide appellants will not be prejudiced by

CHAPTER XIV.

TRANSFER AND RELIEF.

Rule 158—This rule prohibits the constant transfer of subordinate police officers, and fixes a time limit of five years in a station for constables and two years for locals. There is at present no definite order on the subject.

Rule 160—An Inspector handing over charge is required to give to the relieving officer all monies, records and papers in his charge. His responsibility with regard to Government property in the several stations under his charge will continue for 30 days after relief.

CHAPTER XVIII.

INVESTIGATION.

Rule 191—Police officers are authorised to record statements of witnesses in a note-book instead of in loose sheets, as is being done hitherto. There is at present a diversity of practice in the matter of recording statements of witnesses and also in the matter of forwarding copies thereof with the special diary. As a witness is not bound under Section 161, Cr. P. C. (in an investigation under Section 157, Cr. P. C.), there appears to be no necessity to record statements at length, nor for a copy thereof being attached to the special diary, as a matter of course.

Rule 194—Instructions in the matter of recording the dying declaration of a complainant are given in this rule, the important provision being that such declarations should be recorded in the presence of the accused, when he is available or is in custody and to allow him to cross-examine the deponent. It further requires the declaration to be forthwith forwarded to the court having jurisdiction to enquire into or try the case.

Rule 203—With a view to avoid unnecessary scriptory work now entailed on the station writing staff, copies of Special Diaries, the First Information Report and other records of the station in which copies are required are directed to be made by carbon process.

Rule 221—Under this rule all arrested persons shall be searched and the property found on their persons entered in a new register called the Prisoners' Search Register.

CHAPTER XXIII.

SEARCHES.

Rule 240—A Search List in triplicate is prescribed in which records of searches have to be made. One copy will be sent to the Magistrate, the second attached to the special diary and the trifoil will remain for the station record. By the introduction of this register in which the three copies are simultaneously made and bear signatures of the mahazardars, allegations of tampering sometimes made in regard to search records may possibly grow less.

CHAPTER XXV.

STATION-HOUSE RECORDS AND RETURNS.

Rule 270—Prescribes the list of records to be maintained in each station. Of these, the Gang Register and the Petty Case Register which are newly prescribed are of great advantage. A few of the old registers such as the A and B Gang Registers and the K. D Register whose maintenance is needless have been done away with.

CHAPTER XXVII.

VILLAGE CRIME NOTE-BOOK, CONVICTION REGISTER AND SURVEILLANCE REGISTER.

The provisions of this and the succeeding chapters dealing with Village Crime Note-book and Surveillance of criminals lay down an effective system of registration of, and surveillance over, individual bad characters residing within a station limits. They are mostly a reiteration of the principles enunciated in Government Order No. J. 1160-61—Police 173-06-11, dated 2nd November 1906. Government in consultation with the Inspector-General of Police issued orders for the introduction of the Village Crime Note-book and Surveillance Register, as had been done in British provinces following the recommendations of the Indian Police Commission. But this order somehow does not seem to have been carried out with any degree of attention and thoroughness.

CHAPTER XXIX.

REGISTERED GANGS.

While Chapter XXVII deals with individual criminals permanently residing in a place, the rules in this chapter relate to the movements of and surveillance over, gangs or body of persons semi-settled or nomadic, supposed to live by crime. The present A and B Gang Registers will be done away with. The introduction of the Village Crime Note-book renders the A Gang Register now maintained for permanent gangs superfluous. The Wandering Gang Register, also called the B Gang Register, will be superseded by a new register which comprises in itself the conviction rolls and history sheets of its individual members. A strict observance of the rules should prove of great advantage in the prevention of organized crime.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION DEPARTMENT.

Rules 484-486—The classes of crime which may be dealt with by the Criminal Investigation Department, either by entirely taking up the investigation of or by placing an officer at the disposal of the District Superintendent for that purpose, are given in these rules. There appears to be no definite instructions at present on this subject.

CHAPTER XL.

PROVINCIAL RESERVE FORCE.

The rules of this chapter are mostly in accordance with existing practice, the only new procedure requiring notice being that relating to the dispersal of unlawful assemblies by means of firearms detailed in Rule 513. The instructions conveyed are the same as in force in Bengal.
